

REMI VOM PROCTOR HOUSE

Designer Gorilla Bloodline | Proctor House Female

Remi Vom Proctor House is a powerful young female representing the next generation of Proctor House Rottweilers. Bred from carefully selected bloodlines, Remi brings together the combination of structure, substance, pedigree, and breed type that we strive to preserve throughout our program.

Born October 12, 2024, Remi is the daughter of Hemmy Black Vom Proctor House × Dzesi Vom Tannenfeld. This pairing was designed to continue building upon the genetics behind our program while producing a female with the quality and foundation to play an important role in the future of Proctor House.

Remi possesses the strong characteristics we look for in our females: heavy bone, a powerful headpiece, excellent substance, strong structure, and an unmistakable Rottweiler presence. As she has matured, she has continued to develop into the type of female we envisioned when the breeding was planned.

Health Tested

At Proctor House Rottweilers, pedigree and appearance are only part of the equation. We believe health testing is an important part of making informed breeding decisions.

Remi has completed her international FCI/KSS hip and elbow evaluation, receiving:

- Hips: A
- Elbows: 0

These are excellent results, with A representing the top hip classification and 0 representing the top elbow classification on the certificate.
